THE SILENT DANGER — A SURPRISING CASE OF MERKEL CELL CARCINOMA

A DERM DIARIES DERMATOLOGY CASE

A Middle Eastern man in his early 70s with no personal or family history of skin cancer walked into our office concerned about a small, painless growth on his left knee. It had only been there for about five weeks but had noticeably increased in size.

On examination, the growth was a smooth, firm, reddish-purple nodule—non-tender and without any ulceration, almost like a keloid, which is an overgrown scar tissue. Given its rapid growth and unusual appearance, we performed a biopsy. The pathology results were unexpected: Merkel Cell Carcinoma (MCC), a rare but highly aggressive form of skin cancer.

KEY TAKEAWAY

Skin conditions can be a sign of underlying health issues. Consulting a dermatologist is key for proper treatment and evaluation.
